Okaloosa County Sheriff Charlie Morris was arrested Friday morning in Las Vegas.

His administrative director, Teresa Adams, was taken into custody at the Sheriff's Office headquarters in Shalimar.

The arrests on charges of fraud, theft and money laundering came following an investigation conducted by the IRS and FBI, said Jeff Westcott at the FBI's office in Jacksonville.

An affidavit summarizing the charges against Morris was filed by FBI agent James Van Pelt on Wednesday.

It states, "It is believed" Morris, 59, "repeatedly utilized subordinate employees of the Okaloosa County Sheriff's Office in order to facilitate a scheme whereby he has withdrawn tens of thousands of dollars in OCSO public funding for his personal discretionary spending."

Adams, 59, Morris' director of administration and finance, "received fictitious bonuses to Sheriff's department employees," according to a news release. She is charged under the same federal

The night before federal agents arrested Charlie Morris, there were whispers.

Early Friday, while Morris was in Las Vegas on what his employees called a vacation, the whispers grew louder: along with rumors of federal charges following him.

And by the evening at the Sheriff's Office administration building in Shalimar, there were tears of disbelief.

"Sheriff Morris has been like a father to me," his spokeswoman Michelle Nicholson, said, crying. "To say that we're hurt, to say that we're stunned, to say that we're disappointed does not begin to cover it."

"I feel like I'm in a dead zone," Santa Rosa County Sheriff
