[STATEMENT OF PROBABLE CAUSE / NARRATIVE]

On 6/23/2019, the suspect, Emanuel Lamar O'Neil Colley, did in fact violate F.S.S. 782.04(1)(a) - Homicide at 1775 Dad's Road in Baker, FL.

The facts of the probable cause are as follows:

On the above listed date, a witness/caller, Renee Burgess, called 911 about a possible homicide. During the investigation, the victim, Christopher Broxson, was observed on the front porch of his residence deceased with a laceration to his neck and a stab wound to his chest. The victim was still warm to the touch indicating the crime was recent. Later, an autopsy confirmed the victim died from his injuries and his death was ruled a homicide.

Deputies, on scene, immediately noted the extreme behavior of the defendant, which was described as a "roller coaster." The defendant's demeanor went from calm, to upset, to angry. At a point during deputies' initial contact, the defendant made the spontaneous utterance that he needed to protect his family.

During a recorded interview, the caller noted the defendant vomiting. The caller said the defendant did not appear intoxicated when she first saw him. She initially thought the defendant was puking because of what he saw not because of being drunk. The caller elaborated that she saw the deceased and was not even puking. The caller explained that she observed the defendant coming from behind the trailer and running toward an RV on the property.

In several post Miranda recorded interviews, the defendant denies being involved in the death of the victim. The defendant advised that he was not on the porch where the victim was located. He said he came back from the river and saw the victim briefly in the yard; at which time he asked for a cigarette. The defendant explained that he went to take a shower. The defendant explained that Heather Creech told him that the victim was "cussing her kids." However, he said it was none of his business. The defendant said that he would "fight because that's my family." However, the defendant said the victim never did anything in front of him. The defendant further stated that he was in the shower when the crime occurred.

While processing the scene, multiple items of evidentiary value were collected. On the front porch, next to the victim was a wet white towel. As well as a beer can. The wet towel contained both the victim and suspect's DNA, which was confirmed by FDLE analysis. The wet towel is consistent with accompanying a person who just got out of the shower or just came back from the river. The towel being wet also indicted the recent interaction between the victim and defendant. The beer can contained the DNA of the defendant, which was confirmed by FDLE analysis.

Also recovered from the defendant was his white shorts he was wearing on the night of the crime. The white shorts appeared to have blood on them. These shorts were seized and processed by FDLE which confirmed both the defendant's and victim's DNA were on the shorts.

During the several post Miranda recorded interview, the defendant insists that the blood on his shorts was his. He continuously explained that he was bitten by a dog earlier in the day at the river. However, the mark on his hand is not consistent with a dog bite. The injury is more consistent with being punctured by barb wire fencing. The defendant also expressed that he did not have a beer with the victim.

Note: The defendant was residing in a RV with Heather Creech. The area on the property in which the defendant was coming from contained a chicken coop with a type of barb wire fencing.

During a signed consensual download of Heather Creech's cellular phone, there was context between the defendant and Heather Creech about slashing an ex-girlfriends throat.

During an interview with Heather Creech, she consistently explained that she did not kill the victim. The victim was the landlord of Heather Creech. She confirmed that she has had issues with the victim "for months." Most recently the victim turned the power off to Heather Creech's RV. Heather Creech said she explained the issues she was having with the defendant. During the interview, she made the statement "do you think I think Emanuel done it? I do."

Based on the facts above, on June 23, 2019, the defendant committed first degree murder by stabbing the chest and slashing the throat of the victim, Christopher Broxson. The actions of the defendant caused the demise of the victim, which was a criminal act. The defendant conducted such criminal act with premeditation of doing so.

Based on my investigation, I have reason to believe that the defendant, Emanuel Lamar O'Neil Colley, did in fact violate the above mentioned statute. This offense occurred in Okaloosa County, Florida where I am a sworn law enforcement officer.
